DIRECTORS TAKE NO
ACTION ON PROTEST

Oliver Kick Still Stands as Local Win—Studebakers Play Saturday.

No action or at least its public announcement was taken on the question of the protested game between the Oliver and Ball Band teams of the factory leagues at the meeting of the league directors held Thursday night. The game still stands as a victory for the locals, according to A. E. Gardner, director of the local club.

Gardner announced that contrary to published statements, no date had been fixed nor had the matter of a game with the South Bend club been considered. If one is arranged however it will probably be on Aug. 18. South Bend would have to play a doubleheader on the 17th at Dayton in order to take advantage of this date, as each club only draws one open date during the season.

Julius DeRose, who has been catching for Smith's club, the past week will be seen behind the bat for the Studebaker club in their contest with the Ball Bands at the north side diamond Saturday afternoon.

BOARD BILL BEATER IS FREED BY JUDGE

Lack of Evidence Results in Dismissal of Case—Two Drunks Are Fined.

Charges of defrauding a boarding house keeper against Leonard Hudson, of Calumet, Mich., were dismissed by Judge Feig in police court Friday morning for lack of evidence. Ray Gilbaugh, 115 E. First st., who swore out the warrant did not know whether money had been paid or not taking the action at the suggestion of his wife.

Hudson, who is employed at the Forstbauer's saloon, 109 N. Main st., said that he had paid $1 Saturday night after he had been there only three days and had agreed to pay rent every Saturday. Saturday and Monday nights he came home drunk and damaged property of the Gilbaughs upon which they ordered him out of the house.

Judge Feig told him that he had better go back to Calumet where he testified he had worked in the copper mines for $3.50 per day and get away from this saloon job. Hudson agreed to pay for any damage done to the Gilbaugh property.

William McGee and Ernest Van Osdel, of Warsaw, arrested on intoxication charges Thursday night paid guilty when arraigned Friday morning. They were assessed $1 and costs, which they paid.

THEATERS

AT THE LASSALLE.
An enjoyable five-reel screen adaptation of the famous "best seller" by Harold McGrath entitled "Half a Rogue" will be seen at the LaSalle today. King Baggot, a long-time favorite, has the leading part and in this picture he is seen in one of the best characterizations that he has yet played on the screen. The story itself is an interesting one, getting a very good start when the hero meets an actress in a Broadway restaurant. Her marriage to another, later, and the averted scandal growing out of this chance acquaintance constitute many exciting episodes. The photoplay through-out is brightly entertaining and contains a good deal of sane optimism as well as clean comedy that will appeal. On today's program will also be seen the Paramount Photograph of current happenings.

Beautiful Blanche Sweet, one of the most popular favorites of photographic patrons, will be seen at the LaSalle on Saturday in a Lasky production of "The Thousand Dollar Husband," a thrilling drama written especially for her by Margaret Turnbull, the noted dramatist. In this picture Miss Sweet will be seen in one of the most startling of the many roles that she has created before the camera, that of a Swedish maid of all work in a college boarding house. She is surrounded by an all-star cast and the entire photoplay is especially commended upon for its excellent photography.

AT THE AUDITORIUM.
Occasionally there is found a man who, when he loves, looks only at the present and the future, never into the past. If there has been a dark chapter in the woman's life, it makes no difference to him. But more there are who must believe that there has been no one else—whose jealousy reaches back into every year that has gone before. Because of such men, women tell untruths. They conceal the misstep, if there has been one, rather than risk the loss of the man's love. Such a woman is Grace Marshall, in the Triangle play "Not My Sister" being shown at the Auditorium today, with Bessie Barriscale and William Desmond in the leading roles. Wronged

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

MOUNT PLEASANT.—The Rev. O. E. Newton, who has been rector of St. John's episcopal church here for the last three years, will leave this week to become rector of Grace church, Bay City. The Mount Pleasant parish will be without a rector by a sculptor in early years while working as a model for him, she marries later and is happy until the artist comes again into her life, this time with his evil eye upon her sister, whom he asks to pose. Unwilling to confess to her husband and mother, she is forced to allow her sister to accept the artist's offer, but goes daily with the younger girl to the studio, until her husband is filled with jealousy, and then she is obliged to tell him the truth, and with murder in his heart he starts for the studio only to find the sculptor dead, killed by the younger sister whom he attacked and she killed him in self-defense. "His Bitter Pill," a two-reel Keystone comedy, completes the bill. Tomorrow will be shown "The Song in the Dark," a two-reel Essanay; "Baby Doll," a Vim comedy; "Crooked Trail," a Selig western drama, featuring Tom Mix; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew in one of those clever Metro comedies called "One on Henry"; "Mutt and Jeff," those funny fellows, and the Selig-Tribune weekly of current events.
